MOVEMENT FOR ANNEXATION IS STARTED HERE

Petitions Placed in Circulation;
25 per cent of Voters
Signatures Needed
SPECIAL ELECTION IS ASKED
Hope to Have Papers Ready to Present to City Council
Monday Night

The petitions for the annexation to Richmond of the Richmond Annex district were circulated yesterday by a committee of ladies from the Richmond Civic Center club and representatives of the chamber of commerce.

The petitions will be presented to the City Council of Richmond as soon as possible, and it is hoped that the annexation election will be called for sometime during November.

The Richmond Annex is a newly developed residential district about one and a half miles long, embracing all the district west of San Pablo avenue from Richmond city line to the county line at El Cerrito Creek.

The population of the district is about 1500, and development is going forward rapidly. Almost all the street work has been done, and the property valuation that will be added to Richmond by the move is more than $750,000.

The present city limits of Richmond include all the city above line opposite the Annex, but the new addition would include about 300 acres of first-class industrial land along the Southern Pacific.

After annexation, the city's first duty will be to establish fire and police protection in the district, install street lights and make extensive street improvements. The Panhandle boulevard extends through the Annex, and is moved to the present city limits of Richmond. It is along this boulevard that the Southern Pacific company holds a franchise to build an electric line, and the chamber of commerce is hopeful that during the next year this boulevard will be opened into Richmond and the electric line constructed.

It is hoped also that the annexation of the Annex will result in a six-cent streetcar fare to the county line, and the extension of the present car line along San Pablo avenue to Macdonald avenue and thence down through Richmond via Macdonald.

Nine Year Old Girl Runs Away From Home; Found in Berkeley

Taking advantage of the absence of her parents for a short time yesterday morning, nine-year-old Edna Whitney, daughter of Mrs. Mary Whitney, 239 Sixth street, packed a handbag and prepared to see the world. At 10 o'clock last night she was found by a Berkeley police officer at the corner of University and San Pablo avenues where she had left a street car earlier in the day. She was quite composed and unafraid, telling the officer where she lived and the name of her parents. She had merely wanted to "go some place" and boarded the car into Berkeley at noon. According to the story she told Berkeley police officers before the arrival of her distracted parents, she had spent the day wandering about Berkeley. She was quite willing to return home last night after the day's adventure.

The local police who had been aiding in the search conducted which ended in the Berkeley police station. Since yesterday noon were notified of the child's recovery by the Berkeley authorities.

Community Chest Drive Ends Today; Liberal Support Is Expected; Returns Are Good

Today is the last day of the Community Chest drive. The amount Richmond should go over the top. So far more than $9,000 have been collected, according to incomplete returns from solicitors. When the final check is made tonight it is hoped that the quota of $25,000 will have been reached.

The returns last night were highly gratifying, according to Chairman W. W. Scott, who is optimistic that the drive will go over successfully. "It looks good," he said. "The solicitors are working hard, and the people are responding nobly."

All solicitors have been asked to report at the Chamber of Commerce offices tonight, where the final check will be made. All reports should be turned in at this time.

After a slow start the Community Chest drive has been making rapid headway, and today is expected to be the biggest yet enjoyed. The funds to be derived from the drive will be apportioned to all charity organizations in the city, and will relieve the public of the tedium of a series of drives for funds such as has been the case in the past.

There seems no question but that the drive should be supported, it was stated yesterday. The amount asked, $25,000, is low in comparison to the size of the city. Less than $1 per capita is asked for the charity work which will be carried on here during the year. Funds also will go to the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and for the milk fund for the schools.

This will result in ending all separate drives. Since the start of the Community Chest drive here several months ago, the idea has rapidly gained in popularity. The representative committee of 80 appointed to have charge of the drive has canvassed clubs, civic organizations and lodges and all have given their support. Many of these organizations have contributed liberally in the drive.

EL CERRITO IS WINNER IN TEST OF ORDINANCE

Law Limiting Number of Cattle
In City Results In Victory
DAIRYMAN DECIDES TO MOVE
Had First Secured Injunction Prohibiting Enforcement of Mandate

The first test of El Cerrito's ordinance limiting the number of cattle which can be kept within the city limits has ended in victory for the city, according to a report made to the El Cerrito board of trustees last night by Acting City Attorney Wilbur S. Pierce.

Action was started against A. Andereg, El Cerrito dairyman, to force him to dispose of livestock which he was keeping on his place, above the limit set in the ordinance. Yesterday attorneys for Andereg secured a restraining order from Superior Judge A. B. McKee, preventing the city of El Cerrito from carrying out its mandate.

Last night however, Pierce read the board of trustees a letter from Andereg asking for 30 days in which to move, saying that he would leave at that length of time. It is understood that he has secured property in San Pablo.

Andereg was granted a restraining order in which he asked a permanent injunction against enforcement of the ordinance, which he attacked as an abridgment of his rights as a citizen. Andereg named El Cerrito's three trustees, George Conlan, Kirk E. Gray, and Phil A. Lee; W. A. Hinds, recorder, F. H. Wright, marshal, and Alice M. Morris, clerk as defendants.

The ordinance, enacted by the El Cerrito trustees on November 16, limits the number of cows, goats and kindred animals that may be maintained within the town limits and the distance from habitations that they will be permitted. One animal to each one quarter acre of ground is the dictum of the ordinance. Andereg maintains a 32 cow dairy valued at $12,500 and his property measures 570 by 135 feet, considerably under the acreage which the El Cerrito ordinance demands.

At the meeting of the trustees last night Forrest Wright, building inspector, reported that 20 permits were taken out during the month of September, calling for the expenditure of $49,600. The report of City Clerk Alice Morris showed that there is a balance on hand of $1707.65 in the city treasury.

Plans and specifications were adopted by the trustees for the paving of Alameda street from Fairmont to Lincoln including pavement, gutters and sidewalk. The city clerk was instructed to write a letter to the Oakland-San Francisco Traction company asking for the installation of a waiting station at Stockton and San Pablo avenues before the rainy season starts.

(By Universal Service).
SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3.—Police here today questioned Ernest Trujillo and Harris Murray, both 18, in an effort to link them with the brutal murder of Thomas Rhodes, 60, wealthy farmer of Farm Creek, Utah county, following the arrival of the youths from Ely, Nevada, in custody of Sheriff Ben R. Harris.

Stains on the clothing of the boys, said by police to be dried blood and statements of two girls, Nellie Trujillo, 16, and Elvora Van, 17, alleged companions of Murray and Trujillo, who were arrested here, were the main bits of evidence on which police are relying to link the youths with the slaying.

Both girls declared Rhodes had been slain in his cabin by the suspects, carried to a hastily dug grave and there suddenly regaining consciousness and begging for life, thrown into the pit and to make death more certain struck on the head with a large boulder. Sheriff Richardson of Utah county said today.

The two couples then started for Salt Lake City in the slain man's car. Sheriff Richardson declared the girls told him, and later the youths departed for Ely.

Another story was that Giant players headed by Irish Meusel and Hank Gowdy had demanded to see Commissioner Landis and ask him to demand a retraction on their behalf from Ban Johnson president of the American league, that they "suspicion pointed at the whole team."

THEY ADMIT IT

(From the Fall River News)

Who won the war? The democrats.
Who signed the peace? The democrats.
Who were responsible for high wages during the war? The democrats.

Who is responsible for the present high prices of wheat and hogs? The democrats.

You don't need to take our unsupported word for these statements.

Ask any democratic campaign orator. Or if you don't happen personally to number any democratic orators among your list of acquaintances just stroll around any evening to a democratic rally and listen.

You'll learn a lot of things.

You'll learn that the democrats make the good weather, the republicans the poor. You'll learn that the democrats are almost too good for this earth. They are the most absolutely unselfish creatures that the world ever saw. They are in politics, not for what they can get out of it, not because they want power, not because they want to enjoy office.

Far from it! They are in politics solely and only because they love the people of this country with a love that surpasses the understanding. They are in politics because they are the world's most beautiful characters. No tinge of devotion to self is perceptible in their lives. They live only for others. Only the sorrows of others cast a shadow over them.

The country is in an awful state. This you'll learn from the most cursory listening to a democratic spellbinder. The wicked republicans have almost succeeded in handing it over to the wicked capitalists. Only the democrats can save it. But they're willing to save. Just vote for them and give them half a chance to do the saving.

All they want is votes. And they don't want them any worse than a sinner wants salvation, than a baby wants its mother, than a magnet wants its steel.

The democrats built the ark, won the Revolution—ask them; they admit it!

WHY COOLIDGE CLASSED MELLON WITH HAMILTON

Under the able management of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and because of the drastic economy of the entire republican administration, the national debt is being reduced at the approximate rate of a billion dollars a year. The saving in interest on that reduction of principal is about $42,000,000 a year, but the figures show that the taxpayers are actually being saved an interest charge of almost three times that amount. For instance, the interest on the public debt during the fiscal year ending June 30, last, amounted to $940,602,913, which was more than $115,000,000 below the interest charge for the previous fiscal year.

That every favorable showing is accounted for by the refunding operations conducted by the treasury from time to time. Liberty Bonds bearing an average interest of 41-4 per cent. are not only being retired and that part of the debt represented by their face value canceled, but others and certificates of indebtedness bearing up to 51-2 per cent. are also being redeemed by money obtained from the sale of certificates of indebtedness bearing 23-4 per cent. interest. For every 100,000,000 of 51-2 per cent certificates thus exchanged for 23-4 per cent, certificates there is an immediate reduction of interest charges of $2,750,000 per year. It is confidently anticipated that the total reduction of interest charges during the current fiscal year will substantially exceed the cuts of the last fiscal year.

Actual lowering of the principal of the national debt is not the only feature of debt management with which the republican administration should be credited. The skillful refunding operations which Secretary Mellon has directed represent one of the major items of economy in the "more business in government" policy that dominates all our federal activities.

This record of reduction in the interest charge is very discomfiting to the radical critics of the republican administration for two reasons, first, it shows that the administration is lifting a burden from the taxpayers, and, second, it shows that the administration is not, as alleged, favoring the money lenders.

When Secretary of the Treasury Mellon calls in an obligation bearing five and a half per cent and issues in its stead an obligation bearing only two and three-quarters per cent, he has reduced by one-half the burden on the taxpayer and also reduced in similar proportion the income of the interest collector.

These are only a few of the many ways in which Secretary Mellon has rendered service of exceedingly great value to the people of the country. It was with this sort of service in mind that President Coolidge recently spoke of him in the highest terms of praise, classing him along with Hamilton and other famous leaders of American national finance.

Unusual Arrangement of Veil Adds Final Charm to Autumn Bride

THE bridal veil may be a relic of barbarism, but it's a relic that the present day fashionable bride would not wish to part with. The white veil covering the head and hair, if not the face, may be symbolic of subjection, of humility, of docility and a lot of other characteristics that the modern feminist abhors, but brides of today go on wearing it. Imagine the effect of going to the altar bareheaded in these days of bobbed hair! And, of course, no hat would be appropriate with white satin wedding gown.

The choice of the autumn in bridal headdress seems to be in favor of the Russian helmet effect. That is, a bandeau placed low on the forehead, straight across the eyebrows and rising to a peak at the top. This bandeau holds the veil, almost always of tulle, which fits closely over the hair at the top and sides. Quite frequently this helmet bandeau is made of pearl beads on a heavy wired framework. Or it may be of cloth of silver draped over a framework. Occasionally it is ornamented with rhinestones and sometimes sprays of artificial orange flowers are placed at the ears.

A charming arrangement of the tulle veil, carried out at a recent wedding, gave an almost Madonna-like contour to the bride's head. The tulle was drawn simply over the head, low on the forehead, and then drawn fairly close at back and top, being held together over the ears where small bunches of white lilies were placed. There was not a suggestion of metal, pearls, brilliants or lace about the whole headdress—only tulle and a few white blossoms. Another unusual bridal headdress consisted of a sort of Juliette's cap of strong pearls with an edging of tulle at the front to cover the forehead. Another band of tulle passed under the chin like a wimple. And a third unusual arrangement consisted of a sort of visor front piece over the forehead, trimmed with many pearls, and over this a twisted roll of tulle encircling a Baronne's turban.

AN APPLE A DAY

Apple Tapioca

BOIL fine tapioca with the required amount of water in a double boiler until it is clear. Then strain it to taste. Have ready a pudding dish full of sliced apples. Pour the tapioca mixture over them and bake for half an hour or until the apples are tender. Remember that there must be enough sugar in the tapioca to sweeten the apples. Serve not quite cool with whipped cream.

YOUR SATURDAY'S TASK

Ever since Sunday has been a "day of rest and idleness" Saturday has been a day of baking and boiling. Even when or where there is no objection to cooking on Sunday on principal it has been customary as a matter of convenience, to get as much of the week-end cooking out of the way on Saturday as possible.

One thing that really seems to be necessary to the smooth running of any household, however small, is to have all possible cleaning done before Saturday, because it is really a difficult proposition to attend to ordering, special cooking and cleaning on the same day. There is, you know, a tendency on the part of the up-to-date American housewife to do housekeeping intensively, crowding into two days, if possible, a variety of tasks that used to take women a whole week to accomplish. With modern convenience, it seems to them they ought to be able to do this. But for your own comfort and satisfaction don't try to do all the cleaning and extra cooking on Saturday. If possible Saturday's tasks in the house ought to be lighter than on other days, because the men of the family usually have a half day off. One excellent way to make those men of the family want to come straight home is to have the work put off the way by the time they get there.

Among a good many people nowadays, the elaborate, special dinner that used to come on Sunday is served on Saturday. This is the custom always seemingly among middle-class English folk nowadays, who like to have a special dinner on this day, when the man or men of the family get home early and have leisure to enjoy it. Sunday's dinner then consists of simpler fare, the mainstay often consisting of the cold joint left from Saturday.

"Just because I was doing my work as you've taught me to do it, Andrew," his wife told him quietly. "Think back over the year that we've been married. Remember what you've said to me more often than anything else—'Be nice to him! You must have said that to me fifty thousand times, it seems to me. I've had to give up all my own interests and amusements and put yours in their place. I've gone out night after night with you and your clients, or just with them, while you did something that was of more interest to you. I've had to make their pleasures mine. I've seen the Follies twelve times—I could act as understudy for everybody in every musical comedy that's run in this town during the last year! I know all the big dramatic successes by heart, because I've sat through them so often with your prospective clients or with those who were your clients already."

"I've gone out with their wives. I've shopped with them till I hated the thought of a store. Why, at Wamaker's I believe they think I'm a professional shopper. I've gone there so often. I don't have a single moment to myself."

"I don't mind that, though, so much as I do when you've made me. You've compelled me to interest myself in other men. You've been as bad as a professional matchmaker. You've urged me to do everything I could, within certain bounds, to be attractive to these men with whom you wanted to do business. Oh, you've rewarded me—with jewels and clothes and furs and a new car! But I didn't want them—you did. They'd make me more attractive, make me better able to entertain these men and their wives."

"Andrew, do you remember what I told you I wanted more than anything else when you asked what I'd like for Christmas last year? I told you that the only thing in the world I wanted was a baby. And you said we couldn't afford one! You said we'd have to wait a while—that children were a luxury we couldn't have till we could live in the country and give more time and thought to them. But other people, people who have much less than we do, have children and bring them up right here in town."

Discusses Public Ownership, Control of U. S. Railroads

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. In one of the most comprehensive exposures of the fallacy of government ownership of railroads published during the present campaign, George H. Bailey, counsel of the American Moving and Storage Association, declares the same reveals several questions.

(1) Will government ownership control increase production or service?

(2) Will government ownership control be a price to the consumer? Both questions are answered in the negative by Mr. Bailey, who adds that the surest result will be an increase in the cost of the product to the consumer, an increase in the number of employees and a consequent increase in the national tax burden.

"Mr. Bailey's article is published in the current number of the Mining Congress Journal.

"When is the government going to place the 7,000,000 farmers under civil service and on the pay-roll of the government?" Mr. Bailey asks. Should the government take over the railroads and the natural resources of the country Mr. Bailey estimates it would place immediately on the government pay-roll about 7,500,000 employees who would be under civil service with jobs and retirement pensions for life.

Mr. Bailey states that the average farmer pays little in Federal taxes, his taxes average about 70 cents an acre, being almost wholly to state and county governments. But this would not be the case if the railroad and natural resource property were withdrawn from the tax rolls by becoming government property with the resulting loss of $600,000,000 annually paid in taxes by these special industries. The loss would invariably ly have to be made up by the small taxpayers. As to efficiency Mr. Bailey says:

"In railroads we have actual litigation of government ownership and private ownership. During the war period, under government operation, wages of Class 1 increased from $1,733,482,112 in 1917 to $4,851,801,100 in 1920. Following 1920, with the railroads again under private operation, over 300,000 employees were dismissed, more traffic was handled than ever before at a saving of over $600,000,000 per year. This saving also made possible reduction in freight rates which had been boosted enormously during the period of government control. We could hardly have a better example of the inefficiency, loss and poor service than government operation and private ownership gave us.

Speaking of the coal industry, Mr. Bailey asks:

"Why control coal when it will not give you cheap coal, or more coal?" Considering the coal mining and oil situation, Mr. Bailey remarks that it has been only the hope of extraordinary profits that has drawn men to spend millions and millions of dollars in prospecting for "pay dirt."

He asks:

"Could the government have prospectured the country and developed the mines we now have? Could you imagine any congressman voting the millions of dollars necessary to be expended in prospecting? Then the hundreds of mine failures! The Senate and House investigation! Can you see them? Can you see government control opening or creating a single mine in this whole country?"

"The same can be said of oil. No one puts money or time into the extra hazard of oil development except for the hope of extraordinary profits. If the government had limited the profits in the oil industry 50 years ago, there would be no oil industry today. Can you imagine congressmen and senators voting money to put down oil wells to find new oil territory? Can you see an oil industry built up in that way?"

Summing up, Mr. Bailey brings the national touch to show that section hands have become railroad presidents, coal and steel laborers have become members of President's cabinets. "But," he asks, "did any civil service employee or mail carrier ever

Fear Americans May Lose Investment In Dawes Loan Is Worrying French Editors

By BASIL WOON
(By Universal Service)

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Every American investor appealed to by bankers to subscribe to the initial loan of $200,000,000 under the Dawes scheme should look before he leaps—and this is what he should look at:

1. Unlike every other European loan floated on Wall street of recent years the Dawes loan is not guaranteed by any of the governments benefiting by it.

2. If Germany defaults in payment—and she will very likely be forced to do so by the onerous nature of the burden imposed by the scheme—Americans holding Dawes bonds will have no recourse other than prayer.

3. As the Allies are agreed on sanctions to take in case of default and are not much interested anyway since it is not they who are supplying the money, there is not even a guarantee that suitable pressure will be placed on Germany in case of default.

4. The money raised by the loan will be used:

(a) To keep troops on the Rhine.

(b) To ensure coal deliveries to France, Belgium and Italy, removing the necessity of these nations purchasing coal in the United States.

(c) To revive the industries of Germany and France (the latter by means of reparations) and thus permit these nations to flood the United States with manufactured goods at prices impossible of competition for American manufacturers.

5. The Dawes plan mentioned six per cent as the utmost interest Germany could pay. The international bankers who are arranging the loan now put the interest at eight per cent, "to make it attractive."

6. The Dawes loan is essentially political. Its security is guaranteed solely by a long chain of fortuitous events which any political disturbance may prevent.

7. The Dawes loan is only the first of many other and larger loans, the failure of any one of which will mean the ruin of the whole scheme and the probable repudiation of the first loan.

8. Bankers hold out the eight per cent interest as the attractive feature of the loan. American investors are thus called upon to choose between an eight per cent unguaranteed European loan and fully guaranteed bonds at similar or only slightly less interest issued by cities, states, and corporations in American itself, for the benefit of American public works and American industry.

9. Not one penny of the Dawes loan will be spent in the United States.

10. When the bankers get persuasive, remember that they are the only ones who stand to benefit without any risk whatsoever from the cash money you put up.

A prominent American philanthropist, retired head of a great American industry, said to me:

"If they would forget all the bluff about interest and security and label the loan purely and simply as 'charity' I believe they would stand a better chance of getting the money from the American people."

"America has given considerably more than the amount of this loan to charity in Europe in the past. She will give as much in the future. But hard-headed American investors will shrink from investing another cent in a Europe not yet disarmed, bristling with the promise of other wars, and which has not yet paid even the interest on the ten billion dollars she owes us already."

As I write two newspapers are before me. One is the Paris Le Journal, owned by shrewd Henri Lottelier, multi-capitalist, and the other is the Paris edition of the London Daily Mail.

The Journal prints a front-page story, asking whether the rumor is true that the Dawes loan is to be floated in Paris.

"It is inconceivable," says Le Journal, "that this can be a fact."

It is "inconceivable," obviously, because the French know very well the risks attending this loan.

The London Daily Mail, owned by Lord Rothermere, Tsar of British newspapers, attacks the loan project with amazing viciousness. Says that "it will be the ruin of British trade," and quotes George Terrell, president of the National Union of Manufacturers, as saying:

"There is not the slightest doubt that the public are in the dark about the Dawes scheme. They think it will produce peace in Europe and I have no doubt that many think that in some form or other there is to be a guarantee, direct or indirect, by the British and French governments for the loan."

"Many British industries are on the point of getting a knock-down blow."

Mr. Terrell further demands that the "conservative leaders in the British Parliament publicly declare that no conservative government will agree to put any pressure on Germany to force her to pay in the event of default."

As a conservative government is likely to replace the present Socialist government within a year, at most, the consequence of such a declaration would be that British investors would withdraw en masse from the loan, leaving not merely the lion's share but the entire loan to be subscribed by Americans.

The Dawes scheme is cannily constructed in that each loan is practically dependent upon the success of the next.

Clever Cast in "Tarnish" Showing at California

Director George Fitzmaurice has combined earnestness and observation in an unusual fashion in his latest production, "Tarnish," which is being shown at the California theatre today. The film, a First National picture, sponsored by Samuel Goldwyn, is an adaptation of Gilbert Emery's stage play of the same name. Frances Marion is responsible for the picture.

The earnestness and observation of Fitzmaurice is hardly common in the modern trend of photo-dramas, simply because here we have a native drama of genuine vitality. "Tarnish" reveals the drama of youth. It centers around the flat neat door, typically American and introduces rare values.

That its freshness of viewpoint is appealing to look upon there is no denying. Further, the reality of its people, two fine young people in love, and the rumbling of domestic strife caused by a foolish father, makes of the photoplay an unusually significant feature. Briefly, the dramatic elements are furnished by a designing manicurist, who was once in love with the young man about to claim the charming heroine as his wife. The manicurist reveals the youth's past life, and the fact that she is carrying on a little philandering scene with the father of the girl.

May McAvoy, as the young heroine is charming, and effective; Marie Prevost, in the role of the manicurist, is a dazzling and bewitching character of men's hearts, and Ronald Colman a most convincing as an earnest, romantic young man. There are also to be seen Norman Kerry, Harry Myers, Priscilla Bonner, Albert Gran and Mrs. Russ Whytall, all of whom make "Tarnish" a delightfully interesting picture.

Other features on the same program include Will Rogers in his latest screen screen, entitled "Going to Congress"; International News; Larry F. Canelo at the organ.

New York Going for Coolidge

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Colonel Rhineland Waldo, president of the Coolidge Non-Partisan League, with headquarters in this city, said today that reports from all parts of the country show that businessmen irrespective of party, are rallying to Calvin Coolidge for president.

"Business men tell me they want no change in Washington," said Colonel Waldo. "They are frankly afraid a change may endanger present prosperity. I am receiving communications to this effect from practically every State in the Union. Business men have made up their minds their interest lies with Coolidge, and that he is the best man for the entire country."

Colonel Waldo made public communications showing the strong business support for Mr. Coolidge. One was from Robert H. Mainzer, a leading Democrat of this city, and a member of the investment firm of Hallgarten and company, 44 Broad street. Mr. Mainzer has been active in Democratic councils for more than twenty years, and has been recognized by Tammany Hall's Mayor, John F. Hylan, with appointment as Honorary Chief of the New York's Fire department.

"I am an oldtime Democrat, but I am voting for Calvin Coolidge," wrote Mr. Mainzer. "I will also work actively for him as a member of the executive committee of the Coolidge Non-Partisan league. In this election I am laying aside all partisanship. Personally I do not oppose Mr. Davis; I only regret I cannot see my way to be a fellow Democrat with him this year. The country needs Calvin Coolidge."

"I have just returned from a business trip which took me to Seattle; I come in touch here in New York with business men from all parts of the country. Out in the West and here in the East I find the business was almost all for Coolidge. These men are not voting party this fall, but for the man best fitted to serve them in Washington. They don't want any change in our government at this stage of our general prosperity."

Colonel Waldo also made public a communication from David R. Forgan, president of the National City bank of Chicago, as follows:

"There are many reasons why Coolidge and Dawes should be elected but none more important than their united stand for lower taxation and economy in government administration. The mass of Coolidge, Dawes and Mellon stand for these important policies and I have an abiding faith that the common sense of the American people will show on election day that they are not misled by the quick remedies advocated by the so-called third party."

Another statement for Coolidge was made by W. H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, in part, as follows: "I am unqualifiedly of the opinion that from fair economic standpoint, as also in the interest of the shipping and traveling public of the country, the program for the railroads as outlined in the Republican platform should be made effective and carried out in every particular."

Two Youths Held on Robbery Charge

MARTINEZ, Oct. 3.—Captured in a highway culvert 200 yards from the scene of their operations within one and one half hours after they had robbed Peter Bossen of $150 and left him securely bound in the pool hall of Peter Mahanos at Nichols, yesterday afternoon, Daniel Ponto, 20, and Martin H. Chailain, 22, today stood convicted of robbery by their own statements and facing San Quentin penitentiary. The two youths were captured at the point of a sawed off shotgun with Deputy Sheriff R. L. McNamara at the business end. Ponto recently was discharged from the navy and Chailain until last January was employed at the General Chemical company plant at Nichols. Today they admitted burglarizing the Henry Heidorn store and the Knight-Post office early Monday morning. They led deputy sheriffs to their cache of goods.

Relieved After Ten Years Of Suffering From Bronchitis And Asthma

San Leandro, May 23, 1924.

I suffered from bronchitis and asthma for over ten years. I had shortness of breath and at times could neither lie down nor walk without distress. I was also subject to occasional fainting spells.

I obtained no relief. Then my friend, Mrs. Nunes, of Oakley, who had been relieved of similar complaints by the Fong Wan Herbs in 1916 and had experienced no relapse, urged me to try the Fong Wan Herbs.

After drinking the herbs for two months I was entirely well. During the recent cold spell I felt no bad effects. Since my recovery several of my friends who have taken the Fong Wan Herbs upon my recommendation have also been marvelously benefited. My former address was P. O. Box 15, Oakley, Cal., but I am now living at 1890 Washington Ave., San Leandro.

I suffered from burning and itching feet for over a year. When my condition became so severe that I could not sleep at night, I was unable to work for months. I had tried many remedies, but found no relief. Finally I came to Fong Wan for his herb treatment and was completely relieved. I can now both sleep and work without the slightest discomfort. Supreme Court to Pass on County Salary Tangle

MARTINEZ, Oct. 3.—The state supreme court will pass upon the salary tangle of Surveyor R. R. Arnold and will review the decision of Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado issuing a writ of mandate directing County Auditor A. N. Sullenger to issue a warrant for $500 for Arnold's salary for the month of August. Appeal has been filed in the supreme court by District Attorney A. B. Tinning and is expected to be set for an early hearing.

The dispute over Arnold's salary arose when he was appointed county engineer by the board of supervisors under the county engineer act, which the supreme court held unconstitutional because it delegated salary fixing powers to supervisory boards. Arnold's salary was fixed at $6000. The legislature subsequently re-enacted the act with a salary provision, but the county auditor declined to honor the surveyor's warrant.

Life in Shanghai

By MAJOR FITZROY GARDNER (By Universal Service)

SHANGHAI, OCT. 2.—The foreign settlement of Shanghai, unlike that of Canton, is unaccustomed to such an alarming episode as it is now experiencing. The abortive "revolution" instigated by the irrepressible Sun Yat-Sen in 1913 was treated as a diversion when a few shells fell harmlessly into the harbor, but this is a more serious matter, with two big opposing forces of Chinese troops within a few miles of the city. There are no foreign troops nearer than Hong Kong, so the settlement is at the moment dependent on warships of their different nationalities and on the local volunteer force, numbering about a thousand; this includes a squadron of cavalry mounted on Chinese ponies which before the war was comprised mostly of Germans.

Two District Settlements

The Concession territory is occupied by two distinct settlements, the French running one of their own, separated from the main settlement by a canal. In its habits, shops and cafes it suggests a small French provincial town dropped into a Chinese city. The main settlement is more or less governed by a municipality representing the rest of the foreign settlement, with a recognized preponderance of British members and a British controlled police force, the rank and file of which is composed of Sikhs and Chinese. A perfectly equipped fire-brigade is manned by young Englishmen from banks and mercantile houses, and owing to the inflammable character of many of the buildings, often has a big job on hand.

Shanghai is a city of pleasure as well as commerce, so far as the Europeans are concerned. If its claim to be "The Paris of the Far East" is somewhat exaggerated, there is no British community outside Europe which enjoys life as this one does. The Bund, with its streams of smart cars and rickshaws, is almost an equivalent to the Hyde Park "Drive."

A Fine Clubhouse

The English club has one of the finest club houses in the world, with a handsome suite of rooms set apart for lady guests and the County club is a fashionable rendezvous for both sexes after business hours. The Opera House is far superior to the Municipal hall with which Hong Kong has to be content for its theatrical shows, and the Astor hotel has a magnificent ball room, frequently used, and a restaurant at which one learns that a really good Chinese cook takes a lot of beating.

For young men who keep late hours in mixed clubs there are a couple of night clubs, one of which by the way, used to exhibit a notice: "You are requested not to swear. We do not mind, but some people think it d-d rude." And just outside of the Concession area, where the settlement police cannot interfere, is the "Wheel House" (so-called because roulette is its raison d'etre), where Chinese gentlemen in faultless European evening attire rake in the dollars of their optimistic patrons and offer them free of charge whisky and cigars of doubtful quality. In the late summer Shanghai society takes up its residence in houseboats on the river to recover from the dissipation of the Shanghai season.

Tells of Physical Education Work in U. S. Schools

The supervision of physical education in the schools with a history of its development and a comparison of modern methods with those of a quarter of a century ago was described in a talk before the members of St. Edmund's Men's club, by Mrs. Hane Graves, director of physical education in the schools of San Francisco, at the weekly dinner Thursday night. In connection with her address, Mrs. Graves related amusing incidents of her own experience as an instructor.

Jack Mixon was chairman of the evening. Ladies night will be held at the meeting next week.

OAKLAND WINS FROM SALT LAKE, SCORE 5 TO 2

Seattle Wins Twelve Inning Battle From Los Angeles

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—When the baseball elite gather for the season's classic at the Nation's capital tomorrow, they will enjoy no more stirring exhibition than the Siwash and the Celestials put on in Rainier Valley today. Seattle kept pace with the Seals by winning in the twelfth, five runs to four.

Brilliant relief pitching by Fred Fussell, the Wichita Falls southpaw, and Nicodemus Dumovich, late of old Chi, were prominent features of the marathon contest. These and a well-timed swing to right from Ray Rohwer's bat in the twelfth which won the day.

Earl Kane applied the brakes to all four wheels yesterday and pulled the skillful Oaks up standing. The ultimate count was 5 to 2, with the ease of victory perching on the Oakland standard.

Incidentally, the Oaks moved back into their place, which comforts their supporters no little. The thump of dropping into fifth spot—as they would had they taken a beating yesterday—was too much.

PORTLAND, Oct. 3.—The San Francisco champions turned the tables on the Beavers today, backing up the fancy pitching of "Lefty" Williams with some timely hitting, including another home run by Manager Ellison that put the game on ice. Williams had the Beavers pretty well in hand until he had a five-run lead, and it was not until the sixth innings that the home crowd got to him for any damage.

HORSESHOE RESULTS

Results of the day's play in the horseshoe tournament of the Standard Oil company yesterday were as follows:

NEW YORKERS SLIDE INTO WASHINGTON

Thought Senator Backers Would Be Overbearing; Find Out Mistake

Daymon Runyon Copyright, 1924. (By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Wayfarers from New York, set-aside into Washington today in apprehensive mood. They expected to find themselves in a seething cauldron of base balldom.

In fact New Yorkers were ready to admit without a comeback that Washington is going to win. They came humble, apologetic. They felt about as jolly as pioneers in host-Indian territory.

They discovered that the Washington people were not overbearing but walking softly. To hear them talk you wouldn't think their ball club is a 6 to 5 ball club back there in New York to snatch the first game and even money to take the series. Having finally sensed their feeling the New Yorkers permitted their chests to swell out to normal.

Even the Giants in the park hotel began coming up for air. They were not so brash when they arrived here yesterday from New York. What they wanted then was plenty of seclusion. There were somewhat oppressed by O'Connell-Dolan scandal.

Mandate to Force Vote on Franchise Is Handed Down

MARTINEZ, Oct. 3.—According to County Clerk J. H. Wells, John F. Galvin and others have secured from the state supreme court the issuance of an alternative writ of mandate directed to the board of supervisors of this county. The writ is made returnable November 24, 1924, at Sacramento. Galvin in this suit is seeking to compel the supervisors to place on the ballot the proposition of whether or not a franchise be granted to the Northern California Development company to construct a bridge across Carquinez straits between Eckley and Dillon Point.

Inasmuch as the application for the writ is not to be heard until November 24, in the event that the supreme court orders the supervisors to put the matter to a vote of the people, the county will be forced to stand the expense of a special election, according to Wells.

ashamed
It brought him untold misery; yet only he himself, was to blame

HE had neglected his teeth so long that he was actually ashamed to visit his dentist. And like so many people, he kept putting it off.

Finally he became so sensitive about their appearance that in conversation he habitually distorted his mouth in an effort to hide them from view.

A reasonable effort on his own part—consulting his dentist, conscientious use of his tooth brush and the right dentifrice might have saved him this humiliation. But he even neglected these things. He was uncomfortable wherever he went.

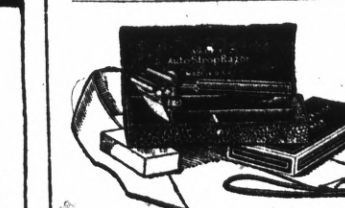

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. At last our chemists have discovered a polishing ingredient that really cleans without scratching the enamel—a difficult problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

COMPETITION

Competition may be the life of trade, this we neither deny nor confirm. However, we can truthfully say that it is a thing we never fear. We are in a position to do printing for less money than any other printer in Richmond barring none. This is not saying that we do it for less, however, for we have run up against some stiff competition in prices already, and wonder how they can do it. Here is one solution: Some people not over steen blocks from here are complaining that they are not making any money and blaming incompetency of employes for their troubles, when fact of the matter is, prices are too alfried low. When we quote a price, this represents the minimum the job can be done for at let-live price. If others beat it look out, there is something rotten in Denmark so to speak. Remember there are tricks in all trades—but ours.

Our prices are fair—to you and we alike.
